The Supervisory Committee is also glad to find that the Company managed to achieve a substantial increase in its profit and earnings per share from 1999 amid keen market competition and rising fuel prices. We will continue to pay close attention to the challenges and opportunities brought by the reform of the PRC aviation industry, as well as by the imminent entry of the PRC into World Trade Organization. We believe the PRC aviation industry has great potential for growth and we have every confidence in the Group's prospects.

In order to ensure the ongoing success of the Company, the Supervisory Committee is prepared to continue strengthening its supervisory efforts in the future.
