CHARACTERISTICS OF GEM OF THE STOCK EXCHANGE OF HONG KONG LIMITED (THE “STOCK EXCHANGE”)

OPERATION REVIEW

Gold price per ounce started in 2021 at US$1,943 and closed by 13% lower at US$1,684 in Q1 2021. It recorded the weakest quarterly performance since Q4 2016, and was 18% below the peak of US$2,067 attained in August 2020. Signs of recovery in global economies and hiking long term interest rates were the main reasons for the drop in gold prices.

According to the Ministry of Commerce, sales of jewellery products during the Chinese New Year holiday surged by 161% in value compared with last year. Most gold jewellery retailers believed that the easing local gold prices, improved market sentiment and continued shutdown policies of most countries for Chinese tourists contributed to the encouraging local retail sales during the season.

While the first quarter of a year was normally a slack season for the wholesalers and growth in consumer demand of Q1 had been substantially reflected in the wholesales market during the last quarter of 2020, the Group's revenue from sales of gold and jewelry amounted to approximately HK$2 million in the reporting period.

For the IT Products and Services segment, decrease in revenue basically reflected a reduced scale of operations compared with the same period of 2020.

FUTURE PROSPECTS

From the start of 2020, the optimism of global economic recovery has exerted considerable downward pressure on gold prices. However, when inflation expectation, continuing low real interest rates and increasing investment risks are factoring in, it is believed that gold prices will be well supported in the remaining of the year.

Given the positive link between economic growth and demand, gold jewellery demand of China may continue to improve in 2021. China's economy will maintain its strength and consumer disposable income will grow even faster in the rest of the year. While Chinese policy makers have already positioned domestic consumption as a priority in coming years, market participants are generally optimistic and keen on raising their inventory.

In terms of product segments, the heritage gold jewellery products which has performed strongly in 2020 among high-end consumers will continue to dominate the market. Younger buyers with lower budget gravitate towards lighter, more affordable and trendier, lightweight gold jewellery in modern designs.

The Group is optimistic of the gold jewellery market of China. Aside from the traditional businesses, the Group is exploring different on-line sales models. The Group has started allied with certain emerging on-line jewellery retailers of major platforms in China and these new businesses may make some good contributions to the sales revenue of 2021. Since effectiveness of these attempts still needs to be observed, the Group will be tracking the market carefully and develop new distribution channels for boosting sales.

For the IT Products and Services segment, the Group will keep looking for opportunities which have synergies with its core business.
