

Employee Information

At 31 December 2005, the Group had 912 employees. Our employees were remunerated according to their performance, working experience and market conditions. In addition to basic salaries and Mandatory Provident Fund scheme, we also offered staff benefits including medical schemes, discretionary share options, performance bonus and sales commission. The total amount of remuneration cost of employees of the Group for the year under review was approximately HK$98.6 million. We continue to provide training for employees in areas such as customer service, selling techniques, product knowledge, language training, problem solving, decision making, communication and presentation skills, team building, operation and people management as well as internal IT systems, etc. Meanwhile, we are also liaising with external consultants to conduct target management, leadership and coaching training program.
