

Air China Limited is the only national flag carrier and a leading provider of air passenger, air cargo and airline related services in China.

Air China Limited is primarily based in Beijing, China, one of the most important hubs for air transportation in China. Taking advantage of its balanced network of extensive and complementary domestic, international and regional routes serving 77 domestic and 43 international destinations and 1 regional destination, Air China Limited aims to become the best partner of all passengers in providing safe, convenient, comfortable and customised services.

Air China Limited's mission is to become the favored airline for mainstream passengers, the most valuable and profitable airline in China, and an airline with international competitiveness.