8. Earnings per share

(a) Basic

Basic earnings per share is calculated by dividing the profit attributable to shareholders of the Company by the weighted average number of ordinary shares in issue during the period.

	6 months ended September 30, 2007 (unaudited)	6 months ended September 30, 2006 (unaudited)
Profit attributable to shareholders of the Company (US$'000)	172,094	43,091
Weighted average number of ordinary shares in issue for the calculation of basic earnings per share	8,602,883,390	8,686,415,657

(b) Diluted

Diluted earnings per share is calculated by adjusting the weighted average number of ordinary shares outstanding due to the effect of all dilutive potential ordinary shares. The Company has four categories of dilutive potential ordinary shares: convertible preferred shares, share options, long-term incentive awards and warrants.

The convertible preferred shares are assumed to have been converted into ordinary shares and the net profit is adjusted to add back the relevant finance costs.

For the share options and warrants, a calculation is done to determine the number of shares that could have been acquired at fair value (determined as the average periodic market share price of the Company's shares) based on the monetary value of the subscription rights attached to outstanding share options and warrants. The number of shares calculated as above is compared with the number of shares that would have been issued assuming the exercise in full of the share options and warrants.

8. Earnings per share (continued)

For the long-term incentive awards, a calculation is done to determine whether the long-term incentive awards are dilutive, and the number of shares that are deemed to be issued.

Analysis of Operating Expenses

Selling and distribution expenses

In addition to the Olympics, the Group has been successful in leveraging its alliance with prominent international sports teams to boost its brand awareness through advertising campaigns and sponsorship activities. Selling and distribution expenses for the six months ended September 30, 2007 increased by 6% as compared to the same period last year. Administrative expenses

The Group also experienced an increase in administrative expenses for the six months ended September 30, 2007 of 22% as compared to the same period last year. The increase is mainly due to the increased employee benefit costs related to increased headcount, the Group's salary increment plan, and increased performance bonuses.

Research and development expenses

Research and development spending for the six months ended September 30, 2007 increased by 12% as compared to the same period last year. This is a reflection of the continued investment the Group is making towards its commitment to deliver the most innovative products in the industry.

Personal Computer Business

During the six months ended September 30, 2007, Lenovo's worldwide PC shipments increased approximately 23 percent year-on-year, better than the industry average growth of about 15 percent. Based on preliminary industry data, the Company gained 0.6 percentage points in market share, accounting for approximately 8.2 percent of the worldwide PC market during the period under review.

The Group continued its strong performance in China with approximately 30 percent year-on-year growth in PC unit shipments for the six months ended September 30, 2007. Based on preliminary industry estimates, Lenovo accounted for approximately 36 percent of China's PC market, representing a gain of approximately 0.3 percentage points. The outstanding performance reflected the market traction of Lenovo's dual business model and its increasing success in addressing the needs of key customer segments with the right mix of products and services in China.

In the Americas, Lenovo posted a 14 percent year-on-year increase in PC shipments for the first half of the fiscal year, benefiting from the transaction model roll-out and improved sales execution in relationship-based accounts following the transition of sales coverage to Lenovo's dedicated sales force. In EMEA (Europe, Middle East and Africa), the expanded roll-out of transaction model and smooth sales coverage transition also led to a 19 percent year-on-year increase in PC shipments and strong improvement in profitability. In Asia Pacific (excluding Greater China), Lenovo's PC shipments increased 18 percent year-on-year, driven by solid growth in India and the ASEAN countries.

During the six months ended September 30, 2007, Lenovo saw significant improvement in profitability outside China as a result of improved operational efficiency and solid implementation of Lenovo's four strategic initiatives: rolling out the transaction business model, improving the supply chain, enhancing desktop competitiveness and building a strong brand.

From the product segment perspective, notebooks continued to account for over 50 percent of the Group's revenue. Benefiting from significant growth in China and improving penetration in transaction business outside China, Lenovo's notebook shipments grew 35 percent year-on-year, in line with the worldwide market in the first half of the fiscal year. Lenovo's desktop business also showed strong improvements during the period. Desktop shipments rose 16 percent year-on-year and posted solid profitability, resulting from the Group's efforts to drive operational efficiency through supply chain simplification and enhanced focus on product competitiveness.

Mobile Handset Business

During the six months ended September 30, 2007, Lenovo held fourth place in China's mobile handset market with 6.4 percent share. Lenovo's mobile handset shipments decreased 8 percent year-on-year due to keen market competition. Nevertheless, the Group has already improved the business' operational efficiency, as illustrated by sequential improvement in key metrics.

Prospects

Lenovo will strive to grow faster and more profitably than the industry by providing the best-engineered PCs and an unequaled ownership experience for its customers. The Group will continue to implement its four strategic initiatives, namely transaction model roll-out, global supply chain improvement, desktop competitiveness enhancement, and brand building. These initiatives have helped deliver continued growth momentum over the past three fiscal quarters. As the Group's brand building efforts have successfully increased the Lenovo brand awareness ahead of schedule, the Group is transitioning its products to the Lenovo/Think brand.

Looking forward, the worldwide PC market is expected to continue to grow according to the industry analysts' forecast. The Group will continue to leverage its existing strengths in the PC market and actively pursue market opportunities. The Group will continue to invest in its operations, including IT infrastructure to enhance future operational efficiency.

The Group also intends to expand its product offerings to fuel growth. Complementing its plan to launch its consumer PC outside China in early 2008, the Group will expand into higher margin products such as workstations and servers.

The Group remains confident in its future growth prospects under the defined growth strategies and will strive to create better returns for its shareholders.

(B) Long-Term Incentive Program

The Company operates a Long-Term Incentive Program ("LTI Program") which was approved by the Company on May 26, 2005. The purpose of the LTI Program is to attract, retain, reward and motivate non-executive and executive directors, senior management and selected top-performing employees of the Company and its subsidiaries.

Under the LTI Program, the Company maintains three types of equity-based compensation vehicles: (i) share appreciation rights, (ii) restricted share units, and (iii) performance share units. These vehicles are described in more detail below. While the Company discontinued the use of performance share units, it continues to honor grants awarded in 2005. The Company continues to use at its discretion, share appreciation rights and restricted share units.

(i) Share Appreciation Rights ("SARs")

SARs entitle the holder to receive the appreciation in value of the Company's share price above a predetermined level. SARs are typically subject to a vesting schedule of up to four years.

(ii) Restricted Share Units ("RSUs")

RSUs are equivalent to the value of one ordinary share of the Company. Once vested, RSUs are converted to ordinary shares, or its cash equivalent. RSUs are typically subject to a vesting schedule of up to four years. Dividends are typically not paid on RSUs.

(iii) Performance Share Units ("PSUs")

PSUs are assigned a value equal to a number of the Company's ordinary shares based on the Company's performance against pre-determined targets over a three-year period. The equivalent number of Company shares for each PSU can range from 0 to 2, depending on the Company's performance. PSUs typically vest in full at the end of the three-year performance period. Dividends are typically not paid on PSUs.

The Company reserves the right, at its discretion, to pay any awards under the LTI Program in cash or ordinary shares.

The total number of awards of the members of the Board, including the Chairman and CEO, under the LTI Program is set out below.
