The major productive and operational data of above are derived from the internal statistics of the Company and are intended to give investors an overview of the production and operation of the Company in a timely manner and may be different from the data disclosed in periodic reports of the Company. The raw coal production volume of 2010 and the raw coal production volume for the same period of 2009 refer to the self-produced raw coal production volume of the Company. The coke production volume refers to the production tonnage excluded the equity production attributable to 45% interest of China Coal and Coke Xuyang Limited held by the Company. The disclosure of above two benchmark items is partially different from those of the same period of 2009.

In addition, affected by various factors, including (but not limited to) the adjustment of the macroeconomic policy of the state, changes in the domestic and overseas market conditions, bad weather and disasters, equipment maintenance and safety inspection, material differences may exist among the productive and operational data published from month to month.

The aforesaid productive and operational data do not make any express or implied forecasts or guarantees in respect of the Company's future operating conditions. Investors should note that unduly reliance on or use of the above information may cause investment risks.
