DEVELOPMENT PLANS FOR 2015

1. Competition landscape and development trend in the industry

Favourable factors: demand for raw materials in the PRC is expected to remain stable viewing as a whole as a series of policies of the Central Government become more specific and materialize which are designed to stabilize growth, promote reform, adjust structure and benefit livelihood and includes in particular the increased efforts in the shantytowns transformation and the infrastructure construction in central and western China as well as the implementation of great strategies such as the "Belt and Road Initiative" (一帶一路). Meanwhile, the Chinese economy stepped into the stage of new normal which will see acceleration in adjustment and optimization of industrial structure. Under the new normal, iron and steel consumption in the PRC has reached the peak values area, posing higher needs for quality and customized consumption. As such, the iron and steel industry has been witnessing a shift from quantity-driven expansion and price competition to quality and differentiation-oriented competition. The new normal brings external space and impetus for the development and transformation of iron and steel industry, which indicates further acceleration in the pace of structural adjustment.

Unfavourable factors: the year of 2015 will continue to see a noticeable oversupply in the iron and steel industry and a decline in the growth rate of investment in the PRC. As a result, it is difficult to see a significant upturn in the downstream demand for the iron and steel industry and hence an improvement in the oversupply situation for steel products. The implementation of new environment protection law will impose more pressure on iron and steel enterprises in environment protection. In addition, the adjustment to the export tax rebate policy will to some extent curb the export of steel products with low added value.

2. Future development strategies

The Company will enhance its independent innovation, optimize the industrial layout, build high-quality bases, improve its core competitiveness, implement green manufacturing and achieve scientific development.

Enhancing independent innovation. The Company will set the "high-strength steel" as its "benchmark" product in the forthcoming stage, and focus on advancing in the core directions including cold-rolling products such as steel for automobiles and appliances and hot-rolling products such as steels for shipbuilding and machines, so as to realize independent innovation in respect of more core technologies. For the purpose of service innovation, a customer-oriented "service excellence" system will be established along the whole value chain.

Optimizing the industrial layout. The Company will extend the industry chain of iron and steel through establishing joint venture or carrying out cooperation with upstream resources companies and downstream customers, thereby achieving production in multiple production bases across the country.

Notes:

- (1) The decrease in operating income from hot-rolled sheets products as compared with the corresponding period of the previous year was primarily due to the impact of decrease in the prices of products. The increase in sales volume of products was insufficient to cover the decrease in operating income as a result of the decrease in the prices. The decrease in gross profit margin was mainly attributable to a more significant decrease in the prices of products as compared with the decrease in the per unit cost of products.
- (2) The decrease in operating income from cold-rolled sheets products as compared with the corresponding period of the previous year was primarily due to the decrease in the prices of products. The decrease of operating cost was due to (i) the decrease in the prices of raw materials and fuels in the market and the increased efforts for purchase at due time by the Company, resulting in a decrease in purchase cost and (ii) the fact that the Company pressed ahead with streamlined production management while tackling key problems on special technique for each procedure of process to promote cost reduction and efficiency enhancement in a systematic way and greatly cut down processing cost and expenditures. The increase in gross profit margin was mainly attributable to (i) the Company's great efforts in reducing costs and (ii) the adjustment of product mix and sales of products with higher profit margin.
- (3) The increase in operating income from and operating cost of medium and thick plates as compared with the corresponding period of the previous year was primarily due to the increase in sales volume of products. The increase in gross profit margin was mainly attributable to (i) the Company's great efforts in reducing costs and (ii) the sales of products with higher profit margin as the Company has adjusted the product mix.

Description of risks: As impacted by the factors such as sluggish performance and excess capacity in the iron and steel industry, a new normality of "high production, high cost, low price, low profit and tight capital" (兩高兩低一緊) has taken shape in the iron and steel industry, which make the competition in the industry fiercer. In addition, the Company will pay close attention to the development of the down-stream industry, prepare for the adjustment of product structure in advance so as to acclimatize its products to the industry policy of the state. Further, it will improve the system and mechanism which enable the production, sales and research to interact favourable, fractionize the types of steel and formulate more detailed product plan for different customers, thus underpinning the specialized sales. For technology research and development, the Company will optimize and improve system and mechanism on technology research and development, define the orientation of technology research and development, introduce technology through many channels, and expedite technology upgrade and product research and development. Meanwhile, it will press ahead critical and backbone scientific research projects, resolve bottleneck of technology, enhance profitability, strengthen dynamic management of research and development projects, and improve the research and development level in a continuous manner.

Reasons for the substantial difference 1. between the transfer price and the book value or the appraised value (if any)

The main reasons for the increase in the appraised value of certain pellet production equipment:

The main reasons for the increase in net appraised value of machines and equipment: the Company adopted the depreciable life of such machines and equipment for accounting purpose, which was less than the sum of used years and remaining usable years used in appraisal, and only residual value remained in the book value of some of the equipment.

- 2. The main reasons for the increase in the appraised value of assets of Equipment Maintenance Center:
  - (1) The increase in appraised value of properties and buildings is mainly due to the relatively short depreciable life (20 years), which resulted in lower book value. While the economic durable life for such properties is 50 years based on appraisal standards adopted in the appraisal. In addition, through site investigation, the properties and buildings have safe structure and their auxiliary facilities are under normal operation, which resulted in higher residue value rate as compared with net book value rate. As the appraisal is based on the actual status of the assets, the appraised value of such assets increased substantially as compared with its net book value.
  - (2) The increase in appraised value of equipment assets is mainly attributable to the fact that the depreciable life of equipment (3 to 6 years) adopted by the Company is shorter than the economic durable life (5 to 18 years) of such equipment adopted in appraisal.

(a) The business combinations under common control

A business combination under common control is a business combination in which all of the combined entities are ultimately controlled by the same party or the same parties both before and after the business combination and on (in) which the control is not temporary. In a business combination under common control, the party which obtains control power over the other combined entity on the combining date is the acquirer and the other combined entity is the acquiree. The "acquisition date" refers to the date on which the combining party actually obtains control power over the combined party.

The assets and liabilities that the combining party obtained in a business combination are measured on the basis of their carrying value in the combined party on the combining date. The difference between the carrying value of the net assets obtained from the combination and the carrying amount of the consideration paid (or the total par value of the shares issued) for the combination is treated as an adjustment to capital reserve (share premium). If the capital reserve (share premium) is not sufficient to cover the difference, the rest shall be deducted from retained earnings.

  - (i) Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss (Continued)

The financial assets meeting any of the following requirements shall be designedly measured at fair value through profit or loss. (1) The designation shall eliminate or significantly reduce the mismatch in the recognition or measurement of relevant profit or loss arising from the different basis of measurement of the financial assets or financial liabilities; (2) the official written documents on risk management or investment strategy of the Group show that the combination of said financial assets or said financial assets and financial liabilities will be managed and evaluated on the basis of fair value and be reported to the key management staff.

The closing cost of the available-for-sale equity instrumental investment is the initial cost.

Available-for-sale financial assets shall be subsequently measured at fair value. The profit or loss arising from the changes in the fair value are recognized in other comprehensive income, and transferred in profit or loss when those financial assets are derecognized. Except that the impairment losses and the foreign exchange gain or loss arising from amortized cost of foreign monetary financial assets which shall be recognized in profit or loss. However, the cost shall be subsequently measured if there is no quoted price of the equity instrument investment in dynamic market, and its fair value can not be reliably measured, or the derivative financial assets which have to be settled by delivery related to the equity instrument.

The impairment loss, of financial asset measured purchasing cost or amortized cost, is the excess of its carrying value over the present value of the estimated future cash flows, and shall be recorded into the profit or loss for the current period. For impaired financial assets, if there is any objective evidence demonstrates that the value of the said financial asset has been restored, and it is objectively related to subsequent events, the impairment losses originally recognized shall be reversed and recorded into the profit and loss for the current period. However, reversed carrying value shall not exceed the amortized cost of the said financial asset on the assumption that the impairment was not made.

If there is, the recoverable amount of the assets shall be estimated and an impairment test shall be conducted. The intangible assets with indefinite useful life and those are not ready for intended use, shall be subject to impairment test every year.

If the recoverable amount of an asset is lower than its carrying value, the difference shall be recognized as impairment loss and a provision shall be made accordingly. The recoverable amount is the higher of fair value of an asset deducted disposal expense and the present value of expected future cash flow from the asset. The fair value of an asset is determined according to the price stipulated in a selling agreement, and If there is no selling agreement but a dynamic market exists, the fair value shall be determined according to a bid from a buyer. If there is neither a selling contract nor a dynamic market, the fair value of an asset shall be estimated based on maximum information available. The disposal expenses shall include the relevant legal expenses, relevant taxes, transport expenses as well as the direct expenses to get the asset ready for sale. The present value of expected future cash flow of an asset shall be established by discounting cash flow generated by continuous use and final disposal of the asset with an appropriate discount rate. Provision for impairment shall be determined on the basis of a single asset. If it is difficult to estimate the recoverable amount of a single asset, the asset shall be integrated into an asset group and impairment shall be carried out by the asset group. If the economic benefit inflow of services rendering could not be estimated reliably, revenue shall be measured at recoverable cost and cost occurred shall be recorded into the current loss. If cost occurred could not be recovered, no revenue from service rendering shall be recognized.

(24) Changes of significant accounting policies and estimates (Continued)

(b) There is no changes in accounting estimates for the current year.

(25) Corrections of prior year errors

There is no correction of prior year errors for the current year.

(26) Critical accounting judgments and estimates

Judgments, estimates and assumptions shall be made to financial statements items, which could not be measured accurately, due to the inherent uncertainties of operating activities, while applying accounting policy. Management bases its judgments, estimates and assumptions on historical experience and other various factors, these judgments will influence the amount of revenues, expenses, assets and liabilities presented in financial reports and the disclosure of contingent liabilities on the balance sheet date. However, these uncertainties have a significant risk of causing a material adjustment to the carrying amounts of assets and liabilities.

The judgments, estimates and assumptions mentioned above shall be reviewed on a going concern basis. If the revisions to accounting estimates only influence the current period, relevant adjustment due to the effect shall be recognized in the current period; otherwise, in the current and future period.

On the balance sheet date, the significant fields involving judgments, estimates and assumptions about financial report items are listed as follows:

(a) Provision for bad debts

The allowance method is adopted for bad debts according to accounting policies of trade receivables. Impairment losses for receivables are assessed on the basis of recoverability, as a result of judgments and estimates of the management. The difference between actual outcome and the previously estimated outcome will influence the carrying value of receivables and accrual or reversal of provision for bad debts during the period accounting estimates are changed.

4. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES AND ACCOUNTING ESTIMATES (Continued)

(b) Write-down of inventories

Inventories are measured by lower of historical cost or net realizable value method according to the accounting policies of inventories; for obsolete and unsalable inventories or whose historical costs are higher than net realizable, provision for write-down of inventories shall be incurred. The carrying value of inventory shall be written down to the net realizable value on the basis of the salability of inventories and the net realizable value. Inventory write down shall be incurred in consideration of solid evidence and the purpose of holding inventories and the effect of subsequent events and etc. The difference between actual outcome and the previously estimated outcome will influence the carrying value of inventories and accrual or reversal of provision for write-down of inventories during the period accounting estimates are changed.

(c) Impairment of available-for-sale financial assets

To available-for-sale financial asset, whether impairment loss shall be recognized in income statement significantly depends on the judgments and assumptions of the management. While making judgments and assumptions, it shall be take into consideration that how much the fair value of the investment is lower than the cost, the financial position and short-term business projection, including industry conditions, technological innovation, the credit ratings, probability of violation, and counterparts' risks.

(d) Impairment of non-financial non-current assets

On the balance sheet date, the Group shall judge whether there is any possible indication of impairment against non-financial non-current assets. The intangible assets with indefinite useful life must be tested for impairment on an annual basis as well as when there is any indication of impairment. Other non-financial non-current assets shall be tested for impairment when there is an indication showing that the carrying value is not recoverable.

Impairment occurs while the carrying value of an asset or asset group is higher than the recoverable value, which is the higher of its fair value deducted disposal expenses and the present value of expected future cash flow.

The fair value deducted by disposal expenditure is determined in consideration that sale agreement regarding analogous asset, and approachable market price and relevant dispose expenditures.

Significant judgments regarding the production amount, sales price, relevant operating costs of the assets (or assets group) and the discount rate used to calculate the present value shall be made, while determining the present value of future cash flows. Recoverable amount shall be estimated by using all accessible relevant information, including production amount, sales price, and relevant operating costs predictions made based on reasonable and supportive assumptions.

(e) Depreciation and amortization

Fixed and intangible assets are depreciated and amortized by a straight-line approach over their estimated useful life by taking the residual value into consideration. Useful life shall be periodically reviewed to determine the depreciation and amortization expenses for each reporting period and be determined on the basis of historical experience regarding analogous assets and the expected technological innovation. Significant changes to previous accounting estimates will result in adjustments against depreciation and amortization expenses in the future periods.

(f) Deferred tax assets

Deferred tax asset is recognized for all the uncompensated tax losses to the extent of the amount of deductible taxable income. In order to determine the amount of deferred tax assets, the management needs to predict the timing and the amount of taxable profits in the future by taking into account the influence of tax planning.

(g) Income tax

There are many transactions and calculations undertaken during the ordinary course of business for which the ultimate tax determination is uncertain. Where the final tax outcome of these matters is different from the carrying amount, such differences will impact the current and deferred tax.

(h) Early retirement pension and supplementary social pension

Expense and liability resulted from early retirement pension and supplementary social pension are determined based on a variety of assumptions, including the discount rate, the growth rate of average medical cost, the growth rate of retired employees' subsidies and other factors. Differences between actual and estimated results will be recognized accordingly as current expenses. Although the management believes that the assumptions are reasonable, the changes in actual empirical value and assumptions will affect the amount of expenses and the balance of liabilities resulted from early retirement pension and supplementary social pension.

(i) Projected liabilities

Provision for product quality guarantee, estimated onerous contracts, and delay delivery penalties shall be recognized in terms of contract, current knowledge and historical experience. If the contingent event has formed a practical obligation which probably results in outflow of economic benefits from the Group, a projected liability shall be recognized on the basis of the best estimate of the expenditures to settle relevant practical obligation. Recognition and measurement of the projected liability significantly rely on the management's judgments in consideration of the assessment of relevant risks, uncertainties, time value of money and other factors related to the contingent events.

  - (i) Exchange risk (Continued)

The sensitivity analysis above is based on the assumption that changes in the exchange rate on the balance sheet date, and this change applies to the Group's entire derivative and non-derivative financial instruments. 1% change is based on the reasonable projection for exchange rate from the Group's balance sheet date to the next balance sheet date. 2013 analysis based on the same assumptions.

(ii) Interest rate risk

The Group's interest-bearing financial instruments on 31 December 2014, please refer to notes 6(1, 14, 22, 23, 24 and 25)

Sensitivity analysis:

The principles of the Group's interest rate risk management aim to reduce the impact of short-term fluctuations on the Group's profits. However, in the long term, permanent changes in interest rates will affect profits.

As of 31 December 2014, with all other variables held constant, assuming that the interest rate of bank deposits, available for sale financial assets, short-term borrowings, non-current liabilities due within one year, short-term bonds, long-term loans and bonds payable increase 1 percentage point, would result in RMB172 million decrease (2013: RMB136 million) of the Group's net income and shareholders' equity

The sensitivity analysis above is based on the assumption that changes in the exchange rate on the balance sheet date, and this change applies to all of the Group's derivative and non-derivative financial instruments. 1 percentage point change is based on the reasonable expectations for exchange rate among the Group's balance sheet date to the next balance sheet date. 2013 analysis is based on the same assumptions.

2. Credit risk

Credit risk refers to the risk that a counterparty will default on its contractual obligation resulting in financial loss to the other party. The Group's credit risk is primarily attributable to receivables. Management will continue to review the credit risk exposure.

For receivables, the Group has established a credit policy under the actual situation, the amount of credit is determined by the customer's credit assessments. The Group requires most customers to pay the full amount in cash or notes of the products before the delivery. The accounts receivable associated with the customers is mature within 1-4 months since the bills issued. The debtor overdue more than one month will be required to settle all the outstanding balances before any further credit. Under normal circumstances, the Group does not require collateral from customers.

The majority of the Group's customers have business tractions with the Group for many years, losses are infrequently occurred. The Group analyzed the aging, maturity and other customer information in order to monitor the Group's credit risk.

There is no significant impairment and overdue receivables as of 31 December 2014.

Due to the accounts receivables of the top five customers, which are accounted for 42% of the receivables and other receivables at the balance sheet date (2013: 76%), the Group may face a certain degree of credit risk concentration.

The maximum credit risk exposure faced by the Group is the book value of the financial assets in the balance sheet. There is no any guarantee for the credit risk of the Group.
