Given the nature of the contracts, the Directors are of the view that the proposed annual caps set out above are fair and reasonable.

REASONS FOR AND BENEFIT OF THE MAINTENANCE CONTRACT AND THE MINING CONTRACT

Maintenance Contract

Kinsenda finished trial production at the end of 2017, and there are more than 1,200 sets or 18 types of main equipment, facilities and ancillary facilities comprising of the process plant, such as ball mill, flotation machines, thickener and backfill system. The existing maintenance personnel of the Group is not able to meet the demand.

Currently, equipment may be on an annual maintenance contract or may be maintained through payment for costs and services on a time and materials basis. This may result in excessive and unnecessary costs for maintenance in the case of the equipment under an annual contract and it may also present the risk of expensive and unbudgeted costs for the equipment not under such contract.

In order to improve quality of work and minimize the cost, Kinsenda has appointed Jin Gang to provide maintenance services. Jin Gang shall be responsible for establishing an equipment maintenance management service program that provides for all inspection/repairs and maintenance for equipment included under such services. Under the Maintenance Contract, Jin Gang shall assume the responsibility for ensuring that all necessary inspections, repairs and maintenance to the equipment are performed.

In addition, given that the site(s) exists in a malaria area, Jin Gang shall take appropriate precautions and shall be responsible for any costs associated with such malaria prevention or contraction by Jin Gang's employees or visitors.

Based on the above and owing to the close relationship between the Group and Jinchuan Group, the Directors are of the view that Jin Gang is able to provide Kinsenda with the maintenance services in a timely and reliable manner, thereby minimising the management and operational costs of the Group.

Mining Contract

Kinsenda has the need to purchase underground mining production services while Jin Gang has the capability and expertise in providing such services to Kinsenda.

Jin Gang is a subsidiary of Jinchuan Group and is mainly engaged in engineering, construction, mining construction and equipment maintenance. By leveraging on Jin Gang's strengths and experience in underground mining production, the Directors are of the view that Jin Gang is able to provide Kinsenda with the underground mining production services in a more convenient and cost-efficient manner.

Reasonableness and fairness of the Maintenance Contract and the Mining Contract

The terms of the Maintenance Contract and the Mining Contract have been agreed upon arm's length negotiation between Kinsenda and Jin Gang. The arrangement between Kinsenda and Jin Gang under each of the Maintenance Contract and the Mining Contract is non-exclusive and there should be no bias or preference for Kinsenda to deal with Jin Gang or any member of the Jinchuan Group.

The Directors (including the independent non-executive Directors) consider that (i) the transactions contemplated under each of the Maintenance Contract and the Mining Contract are to be carried out in the ordinary and usual course of business of the Group; (ii) the terms of each of the Maintenance Contract and the Mining Contract are normal commercial terms, fair and reasonable, and in the interests of the Company and the Shareholders as a whole; and (iii) the proposed annual caps under each of the Maintenance Contract and the Mining Contract are fair and reasonable, and in the interests of the Company and the Shareholders as a whole.

None of the Directors have any material interest in each of the Maintenance Contract and the Mining Contract and the proposed annual caps for which they would be required to abstain from voting on the relevant board resolution approving the Maintenance Contract and the Mining Contract and the proposed annual caps pursuant to the articles of association of the Company. However, for good corporate governance, Mr. Chen Dexin, Mr. Gao Tianpeng, Mr. Qiao Fugui and Mr. Zhang Youda voluntarily abstained from voting on the relevant board resolutions in connection with the Maintenance Contract and the Mining Contract and the proposed annual caps, as they also serve as directors and/or senior management of Jinchuan and/or Jinchuan HK.

PRICING MECHANISM

With respect to the Maintenance Contract, the basic contract price was determined by considering the quality and fee level of similar services provided by different service providers in the same industry in the South Africa. According to a feasibility study for Kinsenda Project, which was designed by a global engineering group in March 2013, the costs of equipment maintenance was about USD1.9 per ton. The pricing process of the Maintenance Contract also compared Metorex's costs of equipment maintenance at Chibuluma Mines in Zambia, which was about USD1.56 per ton. The costs of equipment maintenance under the Maintenance Contract is about USD1.5 per ton, which is lower than the above prices.

With respect to the Mining Contract where the Company adopted public bidding, several bidders were invited to participate in the bidding process. After taking into account the scope of services, requirement for management levels, qualifications and project quotations of all service providers participating in the bidding and other relevant data, the final service provider i.e. Jin Gang, was determined. The entire public bidding process of the service providers is in compliance with the Company's internal guideline for bidding and the terms and prices for the provision of the relevant service project by service provider(s) are less favourable than the prevailing market price level for provision of similar services by other independent service providers.

In addition, as part of the Company's internal control measures, the implementation of the Maintenance Contract and the Mining Contract and the relevant pricing terms in accordance with the general transaction principles therein (including the relevant adjustments) will be monitored and reviewed by the Board and the senior management on a regular basis, with reference to terms of similar transactions which apply the relevant pricing principles. The pricing terms will be reviewed by the senior management prior to the execution of any transaction under the Maintenance Contract and the Mining Contract to ensure the relevant general transaction principles are being complied with on arm's length basis and the terms are no less favourable than those with independent third parties.

IMPLICATIONS UNDER THE LISTING RULES

In respect of the aggregate of the proposed annual caps under the Maintenance Contract and the Mining Contract, as one or more of the applicable percentage ratios exceeds 0.1% but less than 5% as calculated in accordance with Rule 14.07 of the Hong Kong Listing Rules, the Maintenance Contract and the Mining Contract and the respective proposed annual caps contemplated thereunder are subject to reporting, announcement requirements but are except from independent shareholders' approval requirements under Chapter 14A of the Listing Rules.
