VOLUNTARY ANNOUNCEMENT

STRATEGIC COOPERATION BETWEEN BASIC SEMICONDUCTOR AND UBTECH

This announcement is made by BASiC Semiconductor Co., Ltd. (the “Company” or “BASiC Semiconductor”) on a voluntary basis for the purpose of keeping the shareholders of the Company and potential investors abreast of the latest business development of the Company.

The Board of Directors (the “Board”) of the Company announces that BASiC Semiconductor has reached a strategic cooperation with UBTECH ROBOTICS CORP LTD (“UBTECH”), a joint stock company with limited liability established in China, whose shares are listed on the main board of The Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited (stock code: 9880).

Under this strategic cooperation, both parties will conduct in-depth collaboration in the application of silicon carbide (SiC) power devices in the field of embodied intelligent humanoid robots. Leveraging BASiC Semiconductor’s core technological advantages in SiC power devices, together with UBTECH’s industrialization capabilities in the field of embodied intelligent humanoid robots, both parties will jointly develop high-performance and high-reliability SiC power device solutions for application scenarios such as power management and motion control, thereby enhancing the energy efficiency and operational precision of embodied intelligent humanoid robots and accelerating the large-scale application of SiC power devices in the field of embodied intelligence. In addition, both parties will jointly expand the application scenarios of intelligent semiconductor manufacturing to promote the deep integration of semiconductor manufacturing and embodied intelligence.

The Board believes that this strategic cooperation will help the Company enter the high-growth segment of embodied intelligent humanoid robots, promoting the application of SiC power devices in emerging fields, improving manufacturing efficiency and reducing manufacturing costs by deploying embodied intelligent humanoid robots in semiconductor production lines.

Shareholders and potential investors are advised to exercise caution when dealing in the securities of the Company.
