China Market

China is no doubt the fastest growing telecommunications market in the world. This year, overtaking the United States, China regains number one globally in terms of mobile phone users that reached 130 million, representing a penetration rate of approximately 9%. With an extensive distribution network built up since the late 1980's, Global Tech is poised to capitalize on this high growth market.

With China's accession into the WTO, Global Tech is ready for further expansion in this promising market. The following map shows Global Tech's extensive business network in China.
