

An aerial photograph of a coastal region. In the foreground, a large blue and red cargo ship is sailing on the dark blue water, leaving a white wake. The ship is moving towards the bottom right. The coastline is irregular, with green, forested land and some buildings visible. The water is a deep blue, and the sky is not visible. The overall scene is a scenic view of a maritime environment.

INTRODUCTION

The Pacific Basin name has been synonymous with the international seaborne transport of dry bulk commodities in handysize bulk carriers since the formation of the original Pacific Basin in 1987.

The Company that now bears the Pacific Basin name was established in 1998 and continues to focus mainly on handysize bulkers with a fleet of modern vessels of 25,000 to 35,000dwt.

Using this fleet the Group seeks to provide the world's leading commodities companies with the most direct, reliable and flexible freight services.