The contract assets are transferred to the trade receivables when the rights become unconditional, which is typically at the expiry date of the period for the provision of assurance by the Group on the service quality of the construction work performed by the Group. The due dates for retention receivables are usually one to two years after the completion of construction work.
- (b) Unbilled revenue included in contract assets represents the Group's right to receive consideration for work completed but not yet billed because the rights are conditional upon the satisfaction by the customers on the construction work completed by the Group and the work is pending for the certification by the customers. The contract assets are transferred to trade receivables when the rights become unconditional, which is typically at the time when the Group obtains the certification of the completed construction work from the customers.

The Group classifies these contract assets as current because the Group expects to realise them in its normal operating cycle.

Hong Kong Construction industry remains a complex and challenging market, we still have to deal with various issues, including labour shortages in various industries in Hong Kong, soaring inflation and interest costs, geopolitical tensions, and ongoing threats such as cybersecurity risks. At the same time, recent serious accidents in the construction industry and climate change risks such as rising sea levels have also become the focus of our attention. Our risk committee will continue to strive to strengthen internal controls to manage the Group’s strategic risks. We will also focus on strengthening communication, improving risk monitoring awareness and responsibility throughout the Group, and continuously improving risk management methods.

FUTURE PROSPECTS

During the six months ended 30 September 2025, Hong Kong’s economy maintained robust growth, driven by solid export growth and a pickup in domestic demand. Nevertheless, the Group adopted a prudent yet proactive approach to capitalise on market opportunities.

MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Meanwhile, the Chief Executive's 2025 Policy Address signals an escalated development of Hong Kong's construction industry. The Northern Metropolis will be accelerated with dedicated legislation, new development committee, and eased administrative procedures. Besides, the increase of housing supply is targeted for this decade by expediting Public Rental Housing construction, launching the Light Public Housing (LPH), targeting to construct 126,000 units of private housing, and redeveloping Ma Tau Wai and Sai Wan Estate. Overall, a total of 189,000 public housing units, inclusive of LPH, are slated for completion over the next five years. However, the core issue is the shrinking private section market. According to data from the Rating and Valuation Department, private building started in the first quarter of 2025 would only be 40% of the same period last year, a trend unlikely to reverse in the short term.

In the face of a complex and volatile operating landscape, the Group focused its efforts on expanding its capability in formworks design and build management across its projects and has put great emphasis on construction technological innovation, actively utilising its patent formwork system and Building Information Modeling ("BIM") technology to improve project management efficiency and site safety.

Looking ahead, the Group sees signs of recovery in the construction market especially in the public sector, while cost pressures is expected to rise with increasing construction volume. Standing at the critical point of industrial transformation, the Group will always focus on providing high quality and flexible formwork solutions for its customers. Through enhanced operations and technology innovation driven development, strategic resolve and execution resilience to navigate construction market volatility. At the same time, leveraging our experience in the construction industry in Hong Kong, the Group is keen to capture more business opportunities with an aim to attain profitability and sustainability so as to enhance value to the shareholders of the Group.
